MAKE GAINS AT SEVERAL POINTS

Austrians Are Attacking on Montenegrin Front.

DEEP SNOW PROVES HANDICAP

French Repulse Four German Attacks in Champagne District—Russians and Austrians Sustain Huge Losses in Fighting Near Czernowitz.

London, Jan. 11.—While the Russian front has been quiet during the past twenty-four hours there has been severe fighting in the other war theaters.

On the Montenegrin front the Austrians have been generally successful. They have advanced their positions at several important points despite the handicap of snow waistdeep, and are showing themselves just as adept as the Montenegrins in mountain fighting, which heretofore has been regarded as the particular specialty of the Montenegrin soldiers.

In Champagne the French have repulsed four German attacks. The Germans, however, have retained a foothold at two places in the French advanced trenches. In Persia, British reinforcements on their way to the relief of Kut-el-Amara have met Turkish forces which were compelled to retire after some heavy fighting.

The Petrograd official communication says the calm on the Czernowitz front is due to the huge losses and resulting demoralization of the Austro-Hungarian army. That there is some basis for this statement is evident from the estimate of the Hungarian newspaper Pester Lloyd, that the losses on both sides of the Bessarabian battles so far exceeded 175,000, or more than the total British losses in the whole Dardanelles campaign.

Another Hungarian newspaper states on the authority of a staff representative that the fighting on this front has been the bitterest and bloodiest in the history of the war, both sides sacrificing men in a manner without parallel.

The Saloniki front is chiefly notable in the dispatches as the scene of the almost continued aeroplane skirmishes, one of which continued for two hours. The Germans have thus far lost six aeroplanes in this region.

In the Balkans reports persist that the Germans are concentrating at Monastir preparatory to an attack on Saloniki, but the interest in the Macedonian campaign has become secondary to the operations of the Austrians in Montenegro.

RUNCIMAN WINS APPLAUSE

Says Allies Must Prevent Germany Waging Trade War.

London, Jan. 11.—Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade, won tremendous applause from the house of commons with a speech in which he declared that the entente allies must take steps to see that Germany is unable to carry on a trade war against them after peace is signed. "There are signs," he said, "that at last Germany is beginning to feel the economic pressure of our blockade. Her food supplies are becoming depleted, while ours are increasing.

"Although our exports have fallen and our imports have risen there is no doubt that the economic strength of Great Britain is so well founded that we can stand the strain far better than the central powers.

"We must make it clear, however, that when peace comes we will not permit the outbreak of the economic war which Germany would wage against ourselves and our allies."

PRaises BRITISH ACTION

Premier Asquith Refers to Withdrawal From Turkey.

London, Jan. 11.—The British retirement from the Dardanelles was referred to by Premier Asquith in addressing the house of commons.

"The house will learn with extreme gratification of the retirement of the force at Cape Helles (at the tip of the Gallipoli peninsula), without the loss of a single life," the premier said.

"Of eleven guns left behind they were worn out fifteen-pounders, rendered unfit for further service before they were abandoned.

"All stores of reserve ammunition which could not be removed were set afire before the retirement. The whole retirement was conducted with minimum losses.

"These operations, taken in conjunction with the earlier ones from Suvla and Anzac, are, I believe, without parallel in military or naval history."

WOUNDS LOVER AND TAKES HER OWN LIFE

Joliet, Ill., Jan. 11.—Two revolver shots, one of which pierced the neck of John Robart, a prosperous manufacturer, and the other the brain of Lillian Pfeiffer, for three years known as Mrs. Robart, brought to light a tangled tale of love and desertion. The shots were fired by Lillian Pfeiffer in Robart's office, where she had gone to make a last plea that she be taken back.

"No, I'm through with you," Robart said.

The young woman stepped forward and pressed the revolver against the neck of the man she loved. She pulled the trigger and as he fell across his desk she sent a bullet through her right temple. She died at the hospital.

Physicians who attended Robart told him that his recovery was doubtful. According to the police he said that his name was really John Ulrich and that seven years ago he deserted his wife and four children in West Philadelphia and that Lillian Pfeiffer deserted her husband, John Pfeiffer, in West Philadelphia, for him.

Covering Guns on Italian Liner in American Port

Port Gun being Hurriedly Covered

When the Italian liner Giuseppe Verdi reached New York the other day she steamed proudly into port with two rapid-fire guns mounted on the poop-deck above the stern. But when the captain learned that this information had been wired to Secretary of State Lansing and that he had ordered an inquiry the guns were hurriedly covered. He said they had been ordered on the ship as a protection against submarines in the Mediterranean. Whether or not the display of these guns makes the liner a war vessel, which may remain in an American port only long enough to repair, provision and coal, will be the subject of discussion with the Italian ambassador.

SAYS FINANCIERS CAUSED RIOTING

Labor Official Makes Sensational Statement.

GRAND JURY WILL PROBE

Thomas H. Flynn Asserts Youngstown Trouble Was a Scheme to Depress Value of Tube Company Stock So That a Merger of Independent Steel Interests Could Be Effected.

Youngstown, O., Jan. 11.—That the fatal rioting here last week was a financial scheme to depress the value of stock of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, so that a merger of independent steel interests could be effected, was charged in a statement made public by Thomas H. Flynn, general organizer of the American Federation of Labor. Flynn returned here from Pittsburgh.

"We have evidence that we regard as conclusive proving to us that this entire trouble was caused by paid shoggers, brought to East Youngstown by the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company," Mr. Flynn charged in the statement.

"The gunmen who did the shooting were residents of Pittsburgh. We understand that these gunmen, twenty-five in number, were deputized by Sheriff Uistead. If this is so the sheriff violated the law.

"I do not think there was any foreign influence involved. I think it was a financial scheme rigged up as the last desperate resort to depress the value of tube works stock so that interests that are trying to form a great half billion dollar merger could get the control they wanted.

"I have seen sluggers here that I can identify as sluggers that have operated in other places. I know these men were brought here for this job. This whole thing was engineered by financiers. Organized labor demands that this rotten thing be investigated to the finish."

Prosecuting Attorney A. M. Mendenhall, when shown a copy of the statement, said that Mr. Flynn would be called before the grand jury.

Argentina's Natural Bridge.

In Argentina there is a natural bridge that is one of the most wonderful in the world. It spans the Rio Mendoza and is known as the Inca bridge. But it is the work of nature, says the Argentine American, and not, as was popularly supposed, of the Incas. The road on which it occurs was probably a colonial highway made by the Peruvian Incas, who took advantage of the phenomenon by leading their road over this natural viaduct.

Origin of Spoons.

Two natural objects seem to have furnished the model for the spoon to primitive man—the river or sea shell and the leaf of plants. In southern China shell spoons are still used that are closely reproduced in the familiar porcelain spoon of that country, while metal spoons are found in India on which are reproduced even the veins of the leaves from which they were copied.

At the Best

"When a Woman Loves" will be shown at the Best tonight. The story of the play is as follows:

Ruth, a waitress in a cheap restaurant, contributes what she can to the support of her family at home, until the mother's ill health brings the domestic situation to a crisis.

Having insufficient money for their needs, Ruth is tempted to "Play the horses" at which after losing, she dons male attire and entering the pool room, is arrested in a raid. After a night in the station house her identity is disclosed as also, her inability to pay the fine. A wealthy young attorney, Arthur Lowe, on the scene at the time, straightens matters out.

Ruth, however, has lost her position, and in seeking another, at a beautiful summer hotel, runs into her elder sister, who some time before left home for the gay life of the city, in company with two pseudo gentlemen—card sharks one of whom she lives with. The other, Powers, is quick to realize that Ruth's pretenses will prove a wonderful decoy for their victims.

One day, Ruth, while zanoing with Powers, is upset and saved from a watery grave by Lowe, who was leaving his launch for the shore, after which recognizing each other, their friendship increases, while Powers' hatred of Lowe, grows rabid.

At a card game with Lowe, Powers is caught cheating by Ruth, who exposes him, whereupon a fight starts between the two men, in which Powers about to strike Lowe over the head with a decanter, is shot through the shoulder by Ruth.

The story ends happily with Ruth, her mother and Lowe leaving for a long cruise on Lowe's yacht, and as the stern of the yacht disappears in the distance, Dan Cupid, minus one arrow, stands on the shore smiling contentedly.

Forbes-Robertson

"Duluth is to have the privilege—and it is a privilege—of seeing Forbes-Robertson once more before his farewell tour ceases and he retires from the stage. He is to be here three days next week, playing his two greatest parts—the Passerby in "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" and "Hamlet."

Forbes-Robertson, who it is fair to say is the greatest English-speaking actor living, is superb in both these roles, but to our thought "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" is a greater role than Hamlet, because it is more human. From a literary viewpoint—from a technical dramatic viewpoint—of course this play is not to be compared with "Hamlet." From a human viewpoint, on the other hand, "Hamlet" is not to be compared with the Passerby.

In this strange and undramatic play the Passerby, a gentle, humble, kindly figure, comes into a squalid, dingy London boarding house, infested with mean, bickering, backbiting specimens upon whom time and hard knocks have made vicious marks. First, there is a picture of this ugly collection, epitomized by the slatternly maid-of-all-work when she says: "What's the good of us all?" Then, one by one the Passerby summons back to life the submerged and forgotten better selves of these miseries, and this transformation is the play. At the end, his work accomplished, the Passerby passes on to other work, the subtle atmosphere of holiness that surrounds his gentle figure through the play proving more vivid at the end. Witnessing this transformation of human beings from what they ought not to be to what they ought to be, developed by the Passerby as Forbes-Robertson plays it, is a real privilege.

And yet "Hamlet" is a great play, the prince of Denmark is a great role, and Forbes-Robertson is a great Hamlet.

After a lifetime devoted to art of the highest type, Sir Johnstone Forbes-Robertson is about to retire at the height of his powers and in the fullness of his fame. His has been a life worth while, and the good wishes and good will of his thousands of admirers on this side of the water will go with him into private life.—Duluth Herald.

Forbes-Robertson will be at Brainerd on Wednesday, January 12, appearing in "The Passing of the Third Floor Back." Curtain at 9 o'clock. Seat sale January 10 at Dunn's.

NO DRY BATTERIES.

They All Contain Moisture or They Would Be Useless.

So called dry batteries are in common use for small electric call bell systems and private telephone lines and were used extensively for ignition on earlier makes of automobiles. Applying the word "dry" to the battery is misleading, for there is no such thing as a "dry" battery. There never was, nor will there ever be.

If it were dry no current would generate, as it requires moisture to produce chemical-electric activity when the circuit is completed from the plus to the minus elements.

The so called dry battery is really an "inclosed wet battery," which retains its moisture to its limit of life, whether in service or not. The limit of life depends on the stored capacity, how frequently the circuit is applied to it, evaporation due to age and deterioration of the conducting elements.

The battery consists of a zinc cylinder case containing a carbon in the center, the intervening space filled with a paste compound of one part zinc oxide, one part sal ammoniac, three parts plaster of paris and two parts water. The quantities are greater as the capacity of the battery is increased.

As soon as a circuit is completed a chemical combination is started, and the current flows from the internal part of the zinc to the carbon, then out from the carbon to the appliance and returns to the zinc. The external terminals of the battery are the reverse of the internal.

When the battery is exhausted it can be recharged by sending current into it from a close circuit battery, such as a nitric or sulphuric acid cell. Pouring water through a small hole at the top of the battery is an aid to the return of its life, but neither this nor the former will restore the battery to its original efficiency.—New York World.

A Child's Prayers.

If the mother would teach her child to pray she must first know how to pray herself. Then if she kneels by her child's bed and in simple words commits her household to the keeping of him who slumbers not nor sleeps her child will catch something of his mother's spirit and trustfulness and in time, learning to join with the mother in the words as he has already joined with her in the spirit of reverence and repose, will learn to pray. The mother who has no such experience cannot inspire it in her child, but must leave it to be given by some one better equipped than herself.—Lyman Abbott in Outlook.

RIMED RULINGS

For Sneezes Keep Down Diseases, New York's Poetry to Keep Down the Grip

New York, Jan. 10—There is in New York at the present time a fight against grip, and it's being fought in rhyme, with the idea of placing the citizens "hep" in the matter of germs and retention of "pep." The head of the bureau of public hygiene, with a platinum heart and a clear thinking brain, decided that people would read these terse and neatly engraved little armloads of verse and, heeding the warning, would manage to sneeze in a manner less likely to shoot the disease.

So the placards were plucked up all over the walls of stores and stables and rinks and halls, and now when a Manhattan grip patient sneezes he does it the way the board of health pleases. A million, or twice it, are saved every day in this nifty and readable metrical way. So pray, never sneeze in the eye of a friend, for it may result in your own, or his, end.

Some stamps, which on postals will go far and wide, will bear in the heart of their uppermost side some legends that children supplied for the board; they can't do much harm, like the peace ship "La Ford."

They go, just so:

If you use these for sneezes
You'll stop dread diseases.
And Fritz Weinold Reiss has written this piece for those who must sneeze (all night poetical license):—

Protect the public from disease;
Use your hanky when you sneeze.

And last but not least in this rhythmic feast the following junk has been laundered and creased:

If while in a vale of breezes
You're attacked by Maxim sneezes
And get wooing like a rhino full of draught,
Round your head wrap miles of bunting

And proceed with smothered grunting,
Or the board of health will think you're going daff!

Or if sneezing a cadenza,
With the aid of influenza

You cause germs to scoot a mile or more or less,
Grab your hanky panky and hurry.

Blow a solo loud and merry,
And you'll save a flock of neighbors grave distress.

And if storms, both brain and tidal,
Make your attic seem less idle,
As the breezes cause your brain cell doors to shake,

Place your head beneath a boulder,
Till its feeling fair and colder,
And the armor on the germs begins to flake!

Brazil Produces Piassava.

Among the forest resources of Brazil one of considerable value and importance is the fiber piassava, a product of certain palm trees, which is used in the manufacture of brooms, brushes, ropes, baskets and hats. The trees also produce a very hard nut, called in Portuguese coquillo toquillo, from which excellent buttons are manufactured. The leaves are employed for making fans and in the country districts for roofing adobe houses. For making brooms and brushes especially no other material is more extensively employed in Brazil, and large quantities are required annually for domestic consumption as well as for exportation.

THE MYSTERIOUS EAGLE.

On the broad top of a stony, rain gullied hill in middle Georgia there lies a very large eagle—concerning which conflicting stories are told. The one point that seems to be certain is that the Indians left the eagle as a legacy to the state. A hundred years from now it will probably be found lying on its back, with outspread wings and tail, even as it lies today. For it is made of quartz rocks so cunningly placed that it would require a pick in a strong man's hands to displace any one of them. The rocks lap and overlap in such a manner as to represent feathers. No cement holds them in position, and the stones vary in size, weighing from a half pound to three or four pounds. The image rests on a very firm foundation, for the stone work extends several feet into the ground.

Once, perhaps twice, treasure seeking vandals dug into the breast of the eagle, but the work must have proved too laborious, for the diggers gave up before they had reached the bottom layer of overlapping stones.

Rough but fairly accurate measurements of the bird show the length of the eagle from the middle of the tail to the head to be 102 feet and from tip to tip of outspread wings 120 feet. The length of the beak is ten feet, and the height of the body at the center of the breast is ten feet. The eagle lies with its head to the west.

Tradition does not give any satisfactory explanation of the age or the meaning of the great stone mound. It may have had religious significance to the red men who built it, and it may be the burial place of some great chief. It is one of the most mysterious and most interesting of prehistoric monuments in the United States.—Youth's Companion.

What He Says About His Wife.

To his neighbor: "You will find my wife, sir, extremely fair and just in all matters, I assure you."

To his butler: "Your mistress will direct you in everything. She is a perfect housekeeper."

To his partner: "Yes, my wife is extravagant, but how can I help that?"

To his doctor: "You know her better than I do."

To his sister: "She is a wonderful manager, is Adele. I never saw a woman who could make a dollar go so far."

To his friend: "Yes, old man, all women, as you say, are alike, and I guess my wife is no worse than the rest of them."—Life.

1916 Is Baby Year

The facts about American babies, the needs of American babies and America's responsibility to her babies will this year be known as never before, because the first week in March will be baby week throughout the country.

More than 400 communities, representing every state in the Union, are already laying their plans for baby week, according to the children's bureau of the United States department of labor, in order that during those seven days the needs of the babies may be so presented that all the parents in those communities will learn a little better how to care for their babies and all the citizens will realize that they have a special obligation to safeguard the conditions surrounding babies. It is confidently believed by those who are interested in this nation wide baby week that the remainder of the year will be marked by a strengthening of all community activities for saving babies' lives and giving them a better chance to grow to a healthy maturity.

The baby week idea originated in Chicago not quite two years ago. Then New York had a baby week and Pittsburgh and other cities. Such practical benefit has in each case resulted that the General Federation of Women's Clubs has undertaken to promote this nation wide observance. State health officials and national organizations interested in public health and child welfare have taken up the plan and in various ways are giving it not only their sanction, but their active cooperation. The extension divisions of the state universities have promised special assistance in interesting and helping baby week in rural communities.

Baby week will give more parents a chance to learn the accepted principles of infant care and will awaken every American to his responsibility for the deaths of the 200,000 babies who, according to the census estimates, die every year before they are twelve months old.

For Contagions.

It is important that the mother or nurse who is attending a child ill with a contagious disease should take a walk in the fresh air every day. The best way to arrange this is for her to keep a change of clothing in the next room. She should also bathe before leaving the quarantined room. If a bathroom has been set aside for quarantine she can use this; if not, a screen and a basin in the sickroom will have to answer. Then she can slip into the next room and put on fresh clothing.

She should leave the house by the back way preferably or, at any rate, avoid coming in contact with any of the occupants of the house. Once in the street she should not use the street cars nor enter any other house and avoid as much as possible touching any one.

The fumigation of a sickroom after a contagious disease is done by the board of health upon request in most cities, or it can be done by the family under directions of the physician.

Eskimo Sets.

For the littlet boy on his wintry rambles there come the comfiest brushed wool and knit sets that incase him from head to toe in frostproof armor. They consist of a little round cap topped with a pompon of wool or a woolen tassel or even a bit of fur, a close buttoned sweater, long tights and leggings combined and a pair of mittens or woolen gloves. The young hopeful rigged up in these garments looks like a very small cinnamon bear or a snow man, according to the color chosen.

Chestnut Dressing.

Boil a quart of shelled chestnuts in salted water until tender. While warm mash to a paste, adding a teaspoonful of salt, a dash of paprika and half the quantity of bread crumbs, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter and a teaspoonful of poultry dressing. Blend the ingredients thoroughly, and if a moist dressing is required add a cupful of boiling milk.

FIRST AID ESSENTIALS.

What Mothers Should Keep in the Bathroom Medicine Closet.

Accidents will happen as long as we are human, and particularly so while we are children. But the irritating part about accidents is that we do not expect them and that they all have one thing in common—they happen at the wrong time. When you have no peroxide you cut your finger. When Charlie burned his hand at the bonfire you were without olive oil or ointment to soothe the pain. So, the wisest thing to do is to be prepared for war in time of peace, to talk in the language of the day. A good many serious results have been avoided by having a wound dressed properly in the nick of time. Every household, and that means every mother, ought to have a little box, cabinet or other safe place always filled with a few essentials which will prevent unfortunate consequences.

Antiseptics for small wounds should be the first essential.

A small bottle of linseed oil and lime water oil comes next. And you know that it is the open blister which sometimes causes tetanus.

Boric acid to wash out sores before putting the dressing on is not to be dispensed with. Turpentine is also a splendid thing against infection of sores from rusty nails.

Do not let us forget the almost inevitable bottle of castor oil or milk of magnesia in case of fever and indigestion. A small quantity of essence of peppermint and spirits of ammonia should also be added, because sick stomach is a frequent occurrence with the little ones. A box of bicarbonate of soda and one filled with epsom salts are indispensable.

French Coffee.

One quart of water to one cupful of very finely ground coffee. Put coffee grounds in bowl, pour over about half a pint of cold water and let stand for fifteen minutes. Bring remaining water to a boil, take coffee in bowl and strain through a fine sieve; then take French coffee pot, put coffee grounds in strainer at top of French pot, leaving water in bowl; then take boiling water and pour over coffee very slowly; then set coffee pot on stove for five minutes; must not boil; take off and pour in cold water from bowl that coffee was first cooled in to settle. Serve in another pot. The French, who have the reputation of making the best coffee, use three parts Java to one part Mocha.

Skating Corset.

The skating vogue has been responsible for all manner of dress accessories from shoes to caps, with the inclusion of jackets and suits between. And now comes the skating corset, designed especially for the devotees of that exhilarating sport. This particular type of corset has silk webbing over the hips, and the fact that there is no steel down the front makes every movement exceedingly easy and graceful. The corset comes in pink, delicately trimmed. Its price is a little over $5.

LAUDS LABOR MEN.

Views of a Woman Writer on the American Federation Convention.

Inez Haynes Gilmore, writer, expresses these views of the American Federation of Labor convention in a San Francisco newspaper:

"It was like listening to the plans of generals of an army."

"I was truly impressed by the physical aspect of those men. They were the biggest, the most high standing, the most straight looking men I ever saw in my life. And they had more of the fighting spirit than all of the army and navy put together, because the army and navy are bureaucratic and fight for a position, while the American Federation of Labor fights only for labor."

"I believe that the labor union is the only thing that we have that is training men to citizenship. Our schools do not do it, or colleges do not do it. But as soon as a man joins a labor union he begins his training in citizenship. The remarkable intelligence of every man in that convention as to what was going on and their knowledge and understanding of it and all of the economic laws under it was the most impressive thing I have ever seen."

"I say this without qualification, and I go on record as saying this—that the best citizens the country has will be found among the unionists."

Misery in Back, Headache and Pain in Limbs.

Dear Mr. Editor—For more than a year I suffered with misery in the back, dull headache, pain in the limbs, was somewhat constipated and slept poorly at night until I was about ready to collapse. Seeing an account of the wonderful qualities of "Anurie" prepared by Doctor Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., I sent for a box, and before using the whole box I felt and still feel improved. My sleep is refreshing, misery reduced, and life is not the drag it was before. I most cheerfully recommend this remedy to sufferers from like ailments.

Yours truly, W. A. ROBERTS.

NOTE: You've all undoubtedly heard of the famous Dr. Pierce and his well-known medicines. Well, this prescription is one that has been successfully used for many years by the physicians and specialists of Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., for kidney complaints, and diseases arising from disorders of the kidneys and bladder, such as backache, weak back, rheumatism, dropsy, congestion of the kidneys, inflammation of the bladder, scalding urine, and urinary troubles.

Up to this time, "Anurie" has not been on sale to the public, but by the persuasion of many patients and the increased demand for this wonderful healing Tablet, Dr. Pierce has finally decided to put it into the drug stores of this country within immediate reach of all sufferers.

I know of one or two leading druggists in town who have managed to procure a supply of "Anurie" for their anxious customers in and around this locality. If not obtainable send one dime by mail to Dr. Pierce for trial package or 50 cents for full treatment.

Enron—Please insert this letter in some conspicuous place in your paper.

C. A. Lindbergh again reiterates his determination to remain in the race for governor.

Reports from the west state that winter business for the Northern Pacific is breaking all records, the freight hauling from northwest points to the east being unprecedented for this time of the year.

Wilson is opposed to constitutional limitation to a single term of office and says it is "highly arbitrary and unsatisfactory from every point of view." The one term plank is more obnoxious to the president now than it was in 1912.

Does Col. Bryan's remark that he hopes the republicans will nominate their weakest man mean that he thinks that would be his opportunity, or is it a slap at Wilson in intimating that the president would stand no show in the running for reelection if the republicans nominate a reasonably good man. Wm. J. carries that chip on his shoulder all the time.

Henry Ford has put the lid on his peace party as far as drinks are concerned, and will pay no such charges. In addition to this the manager refuses to let the peaceers attend entertainments where there is any abridgment of wearing apparel or where airy, fairy costumes are assumed by the entertainers. You talk about an Indian lid, the peace party seems to be up against it in its worst form—and Sam Clark in the party. Surely there will be some gems in the next issue of the Jim Jams.

The city of St. Cloud has been going through a period of tense excitement over the exposure of a den of vice conducted on a farm near that city under the guise of a road house. To this place girls were inveigled where they were piled with liquor and vice in its worst form was rampant. Sam Hayward and two other men were arrested, but in order to shield prominent young men of the city and prevent the humiliation of their families owing to their necessary attendance in court as witnesses in that case, what might have been a penitentiary offense, was lessened by the acceptance of pleas to offenses that made it possible to punish by a fine, in the Hayward case being $750 and the others $250 and $200. The press and pulpit of St. Cloud have been loud in their condemnation of the state of affairs that has been allowed to exist, and the manner of the disposal of the affair and the punishment meted out has not met with their approval, as the following from the St. Cloud Journal-Press will show:

"Echoes of the Hayward vice cases were heard in practically every church in the city yesterday when the pastors deplored the blot upon the name of St. Cloud and Stearns county and regretted that the punishment inflicted had not been sufficient to be the lesson that was so badly needed."

Three Men.

When H. H. Rogers was in the prime of his power, says a New York writer, he formed a "friendship partnership" with Mark Twain and Thomas Brackett Reed and took personal charge of their affairs, looking after them as he would a couple of children. It was great fun for all three, and especially Rogers. Neither Clemens nor Reed had any sense for business. The big ex-speaker came to New York, a poor man. Five years later he died suddenly, and his estate amounted over $800,000. He probably had no idea what he was worth at any stage. Rogers made as much or more money for Clemens.

The Word "Gent."

At one time the word "gent" was a reputable term for general use. A respectable writer in 1541 tells of "a supper to divers gentlemen of the Gray's line for the great unlie between them and the Middle Temple gents." The diarist Evelyn speaks of the "noise and tumult occasioned by three or four wild gents in drink." Soon after Queen Victoria's accession "gents" became vulgar. Thackeray speaks of it in 1842 as an "affectation diminutive much in use among commercial persons."

Story Of One

Railway's Operation
For One Year

The Dispatch has received the compilation of facts relative to the operation of the Northern Pacific railroad for a year, and believing that the data would be interesting reading in the form submitted it is presented below. The Northern Pacific road is interested in Brainerd and Brainerd is also interested in the successful operation of this great trans-continental line of rail road that furnishes this city its chief industry in the Northern Pacific shops, the largest on the line of the whole road.

Of the more than one billion passengers carried annually on American railways, not one, perhaps, in a hundred thousand has an opportunity of perusing the pages of the annual report of a railway company. To many, such a report with its many statistical tables and its brief and more or less matter of fact statements, would prove somewhat dry reading. But there is, actually, a large amount of interesting matter in such a report.

Let us for example study the report of a large railway company—the Northern Pacific, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1915.

The income received from the mechanical operation of the road was $63,000,000 and the corresponding operating expense was $37,000,000. The cost of operations plus the taxes on the property equaled almost 60 per cent of the entire operating income. That is a fact worth remembering. A few items of expenditure showing how the bulk of this money was expended will prove of interest.

Road maintenance, including track laying, surfacing, etc., cost $3,767,000; replacing old rails cost $262,000; new ties, $1,700,000; ballast renewals cost $126,000; the expenditure for bridge repairs, etc., was $609,000. Along another line, locomotive repairs amounted to $2,275,000; repairs to freight cars cost $2,862,000, and those to passenger cars, $816,000. Labor received nearly $21,000,000 for its services or 57 per cent of the total operating expense. Fuel for locomotives aggregated more than $5,000,000 in cost. Labor and fuel alone consumed 79 per cent approximately, of the total operating expenditure.

Such an enumeration as this shows how wonderfully a railway enters into the life of every community along its line. The track crews, the numerous work crews, the train crews, the shop engine and other operating and repair-men constitute a small army whose wages form an important part of the money that circulates in their respective communities. Without this corps of men and their resources many a town would vanish from the map. The railway's importance to commercial interests in general is also clearly revealed.

Although no extensive construction was carried out last year, yet, in the many constructions, additions made here and there, during the year and in realignments, 112 miles were added to the mileage, the total operated and controlled main and branch line mileage now being nearly 6,700 miles. The most important additions were some new lines in North Dakota that opened a productive agricultural country and stock raising country, and a new double track line from Tacoma, Washington, west. This line, 43 miles in length, eliminates a line of heavy gradient and that was operated at a great expense.

During the year 127 new cars of various classes were added to the passenger equipment. Of these 113 were steel cars—mail and express, baggage, first class coaches, parlor and Pullman sleeping cars, costing in excess of $1,000,000.

Three hundred miles of main and branch lines were newly laid, or relaid, with steel rails weighing 85 or 90 pound to the yard, in lieu of the lighter rail formerly laid. There are now 3,700 miles of Northern Pacific track laid with from 85 to 100 pound steel rails and a large part of its line equipped with automatic block signals providing safety for its passengers.

During the year 128 bridges were replaced. Those of greater length and importance—one-half of all—were replaced by earth embankment or by steel or reinforced concrete, and aggregate more than a mile and a half in length. Since 1885, when the Northern Pacific began to systematically replace old wooden bridges and trestles with new, solid and permanent structures, over 130 miles of such bridges have been replaced by earth embankments or steel and concrete structures. Old embankments have been widened and new ones made, miles of stock and snow fences have been built, long sidings put in, hundreds of miles of automatic block signals operated by electricity have been added, interlocking plants have been installed, new stations have been built, and the track itself has been placed in a condition unsurpassed by any transcontinental railway.

The Northern Pacific may be called a crink regarding cross ties. It believes that good solid ties, well embedded and ballasted, are the only ones that will hold rails firmly under the pressure and strain of fast first class passenger trains and heavy freight trains. It believes that it pays to purchase only the best ties and then to treat them chemically so as to improve and preserve them. To this end it has two tie treating plants at Brainerd, Minn., and Paradise, Mont., for treating all its ties. These plants have a capacity for 2,600,000 ties annually. In the last fiscal year 3,000,000 new ties were placed in Northern Pacific tracks—or, at 3,000 to the mile, the equivalent of 1,000 miles of track. This tells the story of Northern Pacific methods based on safety-first principles, and of the way in which it safeguards the public that uses its trains.

In maintaining its track in this first class A No. 1 condition, the company spends from $1,300 to $1,500 a mile depending upon cost of labor and material.

Many facts and figures of railway operation become, through familiarity, commonplace to railway men. To others they may be extremely interesting. Some few of these that may thus attract the attention of the uninitiated follow. The total number of miles run by all the Northern Pacific passenger trains aggregated more than 10,300,000 miles; of freight and mixed trains, 9,000,000 miles. There were about 9,000,000 passengers carried last year on the Northern Pacific railway.

These figures should indicate that the margin of profit upon which railways, those in the northwest, at least, are operating is not as deep as a well nor as wide as a church door. The ordinary business man would hardly be satisfied with it in his own business.

There were 17,600,000 tons of freight carried, the revenue therefrom amounting to the magnificent sum of not quite eight and one-half mills for each ton carried one mile. When remuneration figures range below one cent for any unit of price or service it is difficult for the ordinary mind to really grasp the situation. The smallness or meagreness of return as here shown may well cause reflection on the part of impartially minded and thoughtful persons.

As against this it may be stated that in addition to what has before been enumerated under general maintenance charges, there were expended by the Northern Pacific for grade reduction and changes in the railway line, more than $300,000; for improved tunnels, $91,000; new bridges, trestles and culverts, $354,000; heavier rails, $296,000; track fastenings and appurtenances, $505,000; new ballast, $267,000; sidings and spur tracks, $312,000; terminal yards, $333,000; automatic block signals, $358,000; new stations and fixtures, $982,900; shops, engine houses, etc., $350,000, besides numerous other heavy similar expenditures.

At the close of the fiscal year 1915 the road owned 1,361 locomotives of various classes, nearly 1,300 passenger cars, and 48,000 freight cars, the latter having a capacity for 1,800,000 tons.

The facts and figures here represented furnish the groundwork for a partial and wholesome conception of what running a railway really means. Between the lines and suggested by the facts given, one's imagination may picture the difficulties and hardships, mental as well as physical, attendant upon such operation, without straining it. The mental cares and worries, the hardships incident to the operation of trains in wind and storms and cold, the economies necessary to reduce expense without at the same time reducing efficiency, the proper upkeep of the railway, the installation of new and useful methods of safety and operation, and through it all the acts of courage, fortitude and heroism among employees that more or less continually occur in the simple, daily line of duty—these must all be filled in by the imagination to make the picture of the story complete.

JOKING RELATIVES.

Peculiar and Embarrassing Custom of the Crow Indians.

The Crow Indians are divided into thirteen clans. In former times the number was probably greater. These groups are called by nickname-like designations, such as Whistling Waters, They Bring Game Without Having Killed It, Killed in Their Stomach, and so forth. Every individual belongs to his mother's clan, and it is considered highly improper to marry a person of one's own clan, since all the marriageable women of that group are reckoned as belonging to the status of either a mother or a sister.

Those individuals whose fathers belong to the same clan stand to each other in a very special relation, which for want of a better name may be called the "joking relationship." They are privileged to play pranks and practical jokes on each other without giving offense, says the Southern Farmer. More particularly is it the function of one of them to administer a stinging rebuke when the other has transgressed some rule of tribal morality or etiquette.

In such a case the "joker" will bide his time until some public occasion arises. Then he will boldly come forward and twit the culprit with his deed in the face of the assembled throng and to his utter discomfiture. Against this punishment there is no redress, for nothing said by a joking relative can be resented. The only thing a man can do is to wait for an offense on the part of his denouncer and then treat him to a dose of his own medicine.

The Persian Crow's Beak.

There is a weapon known as the crow's beak which was formerly much in use among men of rank in Persia and north India. It was a horseman's weapon and consisted of a broad curved dagger blade fixed at right angles to a shaft, pickax fashion. The shaft increased a dagger, unscrewing at the buttend. This concealed dagger is a very common feature of Indian arms and especially of the battleaxes of Persia.

Not the Same.

On one occasion when "The Mikado" was being rehearsed Gilbert called out from the middle of the stalls, "There is a gentleman in the left group not holding his fan correctly." The stage manager appeared and explained, "There is one gentleman," he said, "who is absent through illness." "Ah," came the reply from the author in grave, matter of fact tones, "that is not the gentleman I am referring to."—Dundee Advertiser.

A False Note.

"I hear you calling me," warbled the daughter from the parlor.
"Yes," sang mother from the kitchen.
"I want you to come here and help me with the dishes."
And then a profound silence reigned.

Tough Luck.

An old Cheshire woman called to her lord and master, "Jabez, will t' coom t' thee' baggin?" "Baggin" in Cheshire means dinner.
"What's use? Ah canna foind my old weskut."
"Well, it's warn enough. Tha can ext wout th' old weskut."
"Nay, that Ah canna. Ah've left my false teeth t' t' pockets."
"Then tha'll ha' to starve. Ah gave that weskut to t' ragman this morn'ing."

HISTORY REPEATS
EVEN IN POLITICS

Republican Split Similar to That of the Democrats.

T. R. NOW IN BRYAN'S PLACE

Asserts That G. O. P. Must Nominate One of Three Men, and at This Time Such a Course Seems Impossible—Taft Welcomes Progressives Back, but Says They Cannot Dictate.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Is political history repeating itself? Twenty years ago began a division in the Democratic party, and for sixteen years the strife between the Bryan and Cleveland wings of the organization insured continued success for the Republicans.

In 1912 began a strife between the Taft and Roosevelt wings of the Republican party culminating in the split at Chicago. Since that time the followers of these men have been warring with one another. Every attempt to get together seems to be frustrated by one or the other. Both continue to dictate.

Laying Down the Law.

Roosevelt says that the Republicans must nominate Justice Hughes, Governor Hadley or Hiram Johnson or he will not support the nominee. Hughes says he will not be a candidate, and Hadley and Johnson are scarcely possibilities.

Taft says that, while the Progressives are welcomed back into the party, they cannot dictate who shall be the nominee of the convention and that it is certainly the duty of the Republicans to name a Republican of their own and not the choice of those who have left the party and tried to wreck it, throwing in a few words about "isms, wild ideas, etc."

Movies in Congress.

Some one has had a bill introduced in the senate creating a bureau of motion pictures, to be under the control of the bureau of education. As it provides for a number of new offices, it ought to be popular. That is the way such bureaus are created. Get enough office seekers interested and they will be able to put it over.

Smoot Shuffled the Cards.

Senator Phelan of California is new in the senate, but one day when nominations were being confirmed he sought and secured recognition and endeavored to put through a number of California postmasters. Much to his surprise, Senator Smoot of Utah reached over his shoulder and took the cards bearing the names out of his hands.

"That can't go; this can't go; that can't go," remarked the Utah senator, shuffling the cards and finally handing back a list which Phelan could have confirmed.

"I must find out whether that is real senatorial courtesy," remarked Phelan to another senator.

"Oh, it is better to let Smoot run the senate; saves a lot of trouble," was the reply.

"Blood Merchandising."

Congressman Mondell of Wyoming in his speech opposing the preparedness program coined a phrase which will stick. "Out of this war business," he said, "have grown mushroom fortunes. Its development has been attended by feverish speculation, incredible stock speculation and all of the unhealthy and regrettable brood of influences and tendencies which such blood merchandising always produces." "Blood merchandising" will be heard from again.

Gives Them 6 Per Cent.

Senator Thomas of Colorado will no doubt have something to say about his bill which proposes to make all arms and ammunition plants and every concern that furnishes war material for the government satisfied with the cost of manufacturing such materials plus 6 per cent for profit. There is talk in such a bill, but it will not pass.

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a glass of Salts before breakfast if your back hurts or bladder is troubling you.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nephritis, rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

Conscience. Now and then conscience whispers, "Just wait till I get you alone to-night."—Toledo Blade.

Included in the "not classified" are native whites whose parents were born in different countries, for example, one parent in Norway and the other in Sweden.

The total number of dwellings in Minnesota is 389,809, and the total number of families, 416,453. The average number of persons per dwelling is 5.5 and the average number per family, 5.

The percentage of foreign born or foreign parentage is 71.4 per cent, and the native born of native parents, 27.7 per cent.

SEE WONDERFUL STAR

Matt Hanson, Maple Grove, Watched It in Sky Near Brainerd and Milk Froze in His Pail

Maple Grove and other farmers near Brainerd are observing a star which swings into view between 6:30 and 1 o'clock each evening and so interested are they becoming in astronomy that Matt Hanson says he actually stood there the other night looking at the star until the milk froze in his pail.

The star is of great brilliancy and switches its current or light on and off like a Brainerd light of the old days.

"Oh, don't get funny," said Mr. Mattson with deep seriousness, "it's a star all right. I lived in Brainerd long enough to tell an arc light when I see one. All my neighbors are watching the star too."

CARLISLE SOUNDS ALARM

Impromptu Bill Collector Cops Some "Cuyuna Miner" Blanks, Collects Some Accounts

The new year starts out with a bunch of hard luck for Editor A. H. Carlisle, of the Cuyuna Range Miner. Some young fellow stepped in and collected some of the "Miner's" best accounts and the office never saw the money. Here is the sad story in full:

A certain young man, whose name we will withhold, made an attempt to collect bills due to the Miner last Sunday, and succeeded in gathering in a few, which he promptly tucked away in his trousers pocket. This young man had no authority, whatever, to collect bills for the Miner, but found some blanks and filled them out unbeknown to the management of this office. This is not all the crooked little stunts he pulled off during his short stay here, but we will let the matter rest where it is for the present at least. We wish to say to our readers and other patrons, never pay a bill due to this office to anyone, except the editor. This is the second time we have been swindled by this same party and it is enough.

AS COURT REPORTER

Friends of John Willis Making a Campaign to Have Young Man so Named by Judge Wright

With the death of Willis Wyman, court reporter of Judge B. F. Wright, occurred a vacancy in the service and friends of John Willis, who was formerly of Brainerd and is now in Chicago, are actively urging his fitness for the position of court reporter to Judge Wright.

Mr. Willis was a good stenographer in the Minnesota & International railway offices, working directly under W. H. Gemmell, the general manager. Later Mr. Willis went to Chicago and there for a year and a half studied court reporting and got the actual practice in the Chicago courts and these, by the way, are almost continuously in session.

Brainerd people would be glad to see Mr. Willis appointed to the position as it would mean the return of the family to Brainerd.

Don't put in another day of distress. Let Cascarets cleanse your stomach; remove the sour, fermenting food; take the excess bile from your liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels. Then you will feel great.

A Cascaret tonight straightens you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10c box from any drug store means a clear head, sweet stomach and clean, healthy liver and bowel action for months. Children love Cascarets because they never grip or sicken.—Adv.
